

STREAMING DIGITAL CONTENT UNDER REMOTE DIRECTIONABSTRACT

- 5 Methods, systems, and products for remote direction of streaming digital content from a multiplicity of sources of digital information to a multiplicity of client devices, including receiving digital content from the sources, receiving from a remote director and storing in computer memory remote director instructions, transcoding the digital content from sources into digital content having streaming format, including in an output stream, in
- 10 dependence upon the remote director's instructions, digital content having streaming format, and communicating to client devices the output stream.